

EARTH-LIKE DESERT AREA BUT...

Mars Photos Give No Hint Of Life

This is man's first closeup of another planet — a photographic representation of digital data radioed from Mars by the Mariner-4 spacecraft. The darkness of space is at the top on the photo. The area covered along the edge of the planet is about 200 miles long, and shows a bright area of Mars known as the Elysium. This photo was recorded at an altitude of about 10,500 miles. (UPI Telephoto)

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Man's first closeup picture of Mars shows a remarkably earth-like desert area — but gives no hint of an answer to whether the mysterious planet could harbor life.

The poorly defined picture snapped as Mariner 4 flew within 10,500 miles of Mars Wednesday was released Thursday night while the U.S. spacecraft was relaying its second picture across 134 million miles of space.

Almost half the picture showed only the dark void of space, with but a small portion of the edge of Mars visible in the streaked and smudged frame.

The portion of the planet outlined in the picture, snapped at an extreme angle at the start of a north to south run, is apparently a bright desert with an even brighter area in the center.

Bordering the desert-like area are smudges which could be low-lying hills, darker colored soil or possibly even vegetation.

Scientists said the picture, streaked with lines representing improper radio signals, was not clear enough to warrant speculation about the cause of differences in shadings.

To the unscientific eye, however, it could have been a photograph taken from a very high altitude of one of earth's deserts bordering a jungle region.

Despite lack of detail, scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory were elated, calling the unprecedented electronic image (Continued on Page 22, Col. 6)

ASK McNAMARA FOR MORE INFANTRYMEN

Viets Want To Defeat, Not Just Contain Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky today asked Defense Secretary Robert McNamara for enough U.S. combat infantrymen to defeat the Viet Cong and not just contain the Communist offensive.

Informed sources also reported McNamara was considering expansion of military operations into neighboring Laos to seal off the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the land route by which Communist North Viet Nam sends men and supplies through Laos to South Viet Nam.

McNamara arrived today in the midst of extreme security precautions with Ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. Earl Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staffs. The mission centered on the need for more U.S. combat troops in Viet Nam.

May Call Reserves

The United States already has more than 72,000 troops in South Viet Nam and McNamara has hinted at calling up reserves, extending the draft and extending the tour of duty of military men in Saigon to more than double this figure.

McNamara met for an hour and a half with Ky and other ranking Vietnamese generals. Asked whether specific figures were mentioned in connection with the requested increase of U.S. troops in official American spokesman said:

"Yes, figures were mentioned. But I would prefer not to go into them at this time."

McNamara and Lodge also spent more than 4½ hours with outgoing Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and the U.S. military commander in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

The spokesman said McNamara's discussion with the Vietnamese leaders on the subject of more American soldiers centered primarily in the area of land forces rather than air or sea forces.

Makes No Commitment

"Secretary McNamara made no comment or commitment on the request...nor was he expected to," the spokesman said.

He explained that no troop

decision has been made by the United States yet and it will not be made until McNamara returns to Washington and reports to President Johnson.

Asked whether the projected increases in both American and Vietnamese fighting strength were short range plans to halt the current Viet Cong monsoon season offensive the spokesman replied:

"All discussions of troop levels were aimed at ending the war...not just containing the Viet Cong offensive."

Over The Shoe

A discarded sneaker was lying in the middle of Old Route 13 in Tullytown Borough Wednesday when highway workers came along to paint new yellow do-not-pass stripes on the highway. Did they bother to remove the sneaker? Nope, right up and over it the painting machine went, leaving part of the yellow line on the back of the shoe. It was still there, gleaming in the sun, this morning. (Courier-Times Photo)

Library To Break Ground, Triple Size

Ground-breaking for the addition to the Regional Public Library will take place next Friday — two days after the library's board of directors will formally award construction contracts totalling $120,651.

Completion of the addition, which will triple the size of the library and provide air conditioning, is expected to take three months. The library is on Mill Creek Parkway at Levittown Parkway, Levittown.

Low bidders have been notified, Bernard Glaser, board president, declared today and "bids will be formally awarded next Wednesday night."

Low Bids

The low bids, as approved by the library's solicitor, Charles Fink, are:

General construction, James Turzo & Son, Feasterville, $75,900.

Plumbing and drainage, W. G. Rittler & Son, Inc., Edgely, $4,028.

Heating and ventilating, W. G. Rittler & Son, Inc., $19,883.

Air conditioning, W. G. Rittler & Son, $4,700.

Electrical work, Baker and Matthews, Levittown, $15,600; electrical work for air conditioning, Baker and Matthews, $540.

Glaser today explained that the bids, excluding air conditioning, came in about $5,000 above the estimates of the architect, Ronald Vaughn As-

Nation Pays Homage To Adlai Stevenson

President Leads Mourners

Good Evening!

Another week, another week and time goes by.

Rhapsody of the crickets on the crescendo and soon the katydid will be joining the hootenanny. You notice the days getting shorter?

But what we're worried about now are the ducks on Yardley's Lake Afton.

Something's got to be done about this. We just can't afford to lose these friendly, pretty and gracious creatures that have become part of the tradition of the lovely traditional community.

President Johnson, we see by the papers, calls for an administration drive to curb spending to offset the cost of his "Great Society" (great?) and the war in Vietnam.

No question about the need of economy to help beef up the war effort. As far as the cost of the "society" is concerned, the President's plea must certainly be a tongue-in-cheek sort of thing.

You notice how the untold millions being spent on this "anti-poverty" program are going for the most part for princely salaries for the fantastic number of "administrators" and aides, with disgracefully little help sifting down to the people who need it?

The real anti-poverty deal is in our expanding economy, providing additional job opportunity all over the place. For this, Johnson can hardly take credit. He's just the cheer leader.

Our poor Phillies just never got into the ball game last night at Cincinnati.

Who knows? Maybe Jim Bunning will put 'em on the winning road again tonight.

When a wife insists on wearing the pants, some other woman wears the fur coat.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation he served so well in the councils of the world paid homage today to Adlai Ewing Stevenson in a moving ceremony consonant with his own dignity, humanity and grace.

It was preluded by somber organ music which reverberated in the high vault of the great Washington cathedral where six months ago Stevenson uttered his own beautiful tribute to another great citizen of the world, Winston Churchill.

Fusion Ticket Confused

Heinemann Backs Entire GOP Slate

By JIM STANTON
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bucks County Recorder of Deeds Donald Heinemann formally announced today that he would support the entire Republican county ticket in November.

The probability that Heinemann would support the ticket was predicted in the Courier-Times this week.

Heinemann's statement this morning left the status of the fusion ticket confused. Heinemann had agreed to join the fusion ticket six weeks ago.

"Worthwhile Changes"

"The situation has changed to such a degree since that time that I find it impossible to honor any such understanding that may have been reached," Heinemann said.

The 38-year-old office holder,

President Johnson, his face lined in grief, listened intently as an old friend of Stevenson's described the 65-year-old statesman as "this completely civilized man" who "died as he would have wished, engaged in his country's business, and mankind's."

Stevenson, who twice sought the U.S. presidency on the Democratic ticket and twice lost, died of a massive heart attack in London on Wednesday while "engaged in his country's business" as ambassador to the United Nations.

Today President Johnson led the nations' great and the world's representatives in mourning for the son of Illinois who had made himself the most eloquent spokesman of America's highest and finest aspirations.

Thousands of citizens Thursday night filed past the flag-draped casket in the cavernous Bethlehem chapel in the crypt below the cathedral's floor. Today the casket rested in the great crossing of the nave before the steps leading toward the cathedral's still unfinished great altar.

An old and close friend, Judge Carl McGowan of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, delivered the eulogy. Another friend, the Rev. Dr. Richard Paul

Heart Attack Cause Of Death

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy said today the cause of Adlai E. Stevenson's death in London was a sudden heart attack.

The spokesman said the result of an autopsy showed Stevenson collapsed and died of a coronary thrombosis—a blockage of the arteries of the heart.

It was the first official word on the cause of Stevenson's death.

A Startling Gown—Absolutely No Back

By KATHY FINEGAN
Women's News Editor

NEW YORK — The fashion world has found an answer to "What's New, Pussycat?" The message was delivered yesterday by an enchanting feline, "the leopard."

Designer Charles Howard of Townley created one of the most startling and imaginative gowns shown this week. It was a long, slinky, sequined, shimmering dress with a halter neckline and absolutely no back — a real shocker that sparkled with a truly catlike motion.

Schoolgirl Appearance

In direct contrast to his evening extravagance Townley featured the smock look for daytime and gave it an innocent, almost schoolgirlish appearance.

The incomparable suit maker, Davidow, turned out his usual classics. This year the fabulous variety of fabrics in new textures and colors — especially in pure silk, taffeta, and glen plaid — add a new dimension to his designs.

Many of his suits were mated

Forum Created To Aid Industry In Bucks Via Foreign Markets

The Bucks County Forum of International Commerce was created yesterday to promote industrial expansion in the county via foreign markets.

Named to head the forum was Sager Colman, 41-year-old industrialist from Warrington.

Colman is manager of the International Division of Fischer and Porter Company, Warminster, manufacturer of electronic and mechanical equipment.

Full Support

Henry J. Dempsey, a U.S. Department of Commerce official, speaking to a group of businessmen at Conti's Inn, Cross Keys, pledged full support of his department for the venture.

"We're 100 per cent behind you," Dempsey told the group.

Other officers named were Norman A. Olson, Doylestown manufacturer, vice president; Warren Likens, executive director of the Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce, secretary; and Robert D. Crowley, Morrisville banker, treasurer.

William P. Abbott, executive director of the Bucks County Industrial Development Corporation, and a guiding force behind the forum, chaired the luncheon meeting.

More Comfortable

"The idea of foreign trade is new to us," said Dempsey, who is chief of the international section at the Philadelphia field office. "But you all will feel more comfortable in belonging to a county-wide group."

"If you capitalize on the (foreign) prospects coming to your door, you can't miss," Dempsey said. "You will add to your industrial expansion."

Abbott pointed out that not only is it the function of his corporation to bring in new industry but also to assist those industries already existing in the county.

Foreign Businesses

At a discussion, it was suggested meetings be held monthly in the evenings; that foreign businessmen be invited to the dinners and to the homes of local businessmen.

Abbott said the forum might go on to become a non-profit corporation.

Coleman suggested annual dues for members at $25 but indicated the fee might be less for small businesses and for members representing several firms.

County Commissioner John J. Bodley, and Robert W. Valmont, IDC solicitor, both offered their legal services.

IDC President W. Bruce Fye, Yardley banker, welcomed the group.

Passenger In Crash To Go To Court

Ozell Akins, 32, of 457 Court A, Bristol Terrace, has waived a hearing and will await Bucks County court action on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the Fourth of July automobile death of a 25-year-old Levittown mother.

Akins' wife, Carletta, 24, was driving the car which crashed head-on into an auto driven by Ronald Wight, 27, of 10 Dogwood Drive, Levittown. Wight's wife, Marguerite, 25, was killed instantly in the crash on Route 13, near Green Lane, Bristol Township.

Wight was seriously injured and lay in critical condition for several days at Delaware Valley Hospital, Bristol. Today, the hospital reports his condition is "much improved."

Children Injured

The Wights' three children, Ronald Jr., 3; Mary Ann, 4, and Corinne, 16 months, were injured, but have since left the hospital and are living with their grandmother in Trenton.

Akins has been released in $1,500 bail for the grand jury. He also was charged with permitting his wife to drive without a license and was fined $25 and $5 costs by Justice of the Peace Joseph M. Haines, Edgely.

Mrs. Akins earlier waived a hearing before Justice of the Peace Rene J. Tritschler, Croydon, and has been released in $2,500 bail for court action. Squire Tritschler dismissed a charge of drunken driving due to lack of evidence.

Mrs. Akins was fined $25 and $5 costs for operating her car without a license and $10 and $5 costs for reckless driving. The fines were levied by JP Haines.

Speed Trap Catches 31

A speed trap by Middletown Township police resulted in tickets for 31 motorists this morning.

A spokesman for the force said the speed checks would continue and be established in any area where there are consistent complaints.

The trap this morning was located on Durham Road, a few feet south of the Pennell Borough line. Residents along Durham Road have complained on several occasions that motorists were speeding to and from their places of employment.

The speed limit on Durham Road is 35 miles per hour. The trap was in effect from 7 to 8:30 a.m.

Husband Survives 20-Mile Ordeal

Wife, 19, Dies In Desert After Car Stalls In Sand

CHANDLER, Ariz. (AP) — Lost under a blazing sun, stumbling for water, Cheryl Ebeling, 19, died in the foothills of the rugged San Tan Mountains.

Her body was found Thursday, 18 hours after she and her husband, Richard, had abandoned their car stalled in sand.

"I called back to my wife, 'Come on — it's just a little ways now,'" Ebeling said. "When I looked back, she wasn't there."

The couple, married last August, drove into the desert southeast of Phoenix early Wednesday to hike and hunt for rocks. Their car bogged down six miles from the community of Olberg.

Ebeling, 26, said they had given up trying to free the car by noon and, under the 105-degree sun, started walking back toward Chandler some 20 miles away.

"Sticks looked like rattlesnakes, and rattlesnakes looked like sticks," Ebeling recalled.

After four miles, Ebeling said his wife was lagging 50 yards behind him when he climbed a small hill and spotted Chandler-area homes below and Phoenix in the distance.

"I called to tell her the news," he sobbed. "I walked on, thinking she was following. But that's when I should have turned back."

Ebeling reached a telephone, and he and his mother returned to seek Cheryl. During the night about 50 law enforcement officers joined the search. The young woman's body was found beside a bush the next morning. She was clutching a small shrub for shade.

A coroner's jury ruled she had died of dehydration caused by exposure to the sun.

Driver Charged In Assault At Strick

A Brooklyn, N.Y. truck driver is free today on $1,500 bail after he allegedly assaulted a Strick Trailer employee, threatened a Strick executive with a chain and crashed his truck through the trucking firm's side gate.

Joseph Mazza, 27, was charged before Justice of the Peace John Melvin with malicious mischief, assault, threatening to do bodily harm and not having his driver's license on his person.

He was arrested at Bristol-Oxford Valley and Newportville Roads by Falls Township police shortly after 4 p.m. yesterday.

Elwood LaCompte, a foreman at Strick, told police that Mazza struck Harold Richman, another employee, with his fist.

Mazza then threatened Louis Kandle, a Strick executive, with a chain as Mazza left the property by driving his truck through the gate, LaCompte said.

Heat Wave To Continue

More hot and humid weather is on the way for Bucks County this weekend with no sign of additional rain to relieve the drought situation.

Brief showers yesterday brought only four one-hundredths of an inch of rain to the area. July's rainfall has been 3.09 inches, more than an inch below the normal of 4.18.

Bucks County's rain deficiency for the year, however, is more than seven inches. Normal rainfall through July 31 is 24.14 inches. To date, we've had 17.09 inches.

River Flow Steady

The Delaware River, aided by two - and - a half inches of rain last Sunday and the release of water from New York reservoirs, has held steady the past 24 hours with a flow of 1.810 cubic feet per second at the Calhoun St. Bridge in Trenton. The flow, however, is below the minimum 2,000 feet per cubic second requested by the Delaware River Basin Commission.

Sunny skies sent temperatures into the mid 80s today with the 3 p.m. reading at 85 degrees.

Temperatures are expected in the low 90s tomorrow and Sunday with increased humidity adding to the discomforts of the summer heat wave. The weatherman says there's a possibility of scattered showers Sunday and again next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Earmarked For Bensalem

This is the architect's rendering of one of the two-story buildings planned for garden apartment complex at Street and Hulmeville Roads, Bensalem Township, by Hyman Korman, Inc. The 756-unit complex is the largest yet planned for Bucks County.

756-Unit Garden Apt. OK'd

By CHARLES MCGURK
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bucks County's largest proposed apartment development, a 756-unit garden complex in Bensalem Township, was given the go-ahead last night by the township planning commission.

The commission approved the request of Korman Development Co. Inc., an affiliate of Hyman Korman Inc., to rezone the land at Street and Hulmeville Roads from planned commercial and residential to commercial D.

The commission also approved five other rezoning requests, denied one and tabled another at its meeting at the Bensalem Municipal Building. Final action on the rezonings must be taken by the township board of supervisors.

Cornwells Park

To be called Cornwells Park, the apartment complex will occupy a 55.7-acre tract, most of which is presently in the planned commercial zoning. Plans call for the retention of 8.5 acres of the commercial ground for a shopping center to be built on the corner formed by the two roads.

Construction of the apartments and shopping center will begin as soon as the construction of Street Road permits, contingent on zoning approval by the supervisors.

Second Look

In requesting the zoning change, Frank E. Elliott, executive vice president of the development company, explained that original plans called for the construction of a large regional shopping center on the land now slated for apartment development.

He said the recently completed plans for the $15 million air-conditioned shopping mall on Route 1 caused the company to take a second look at the Street Road property as it was believed the area could not successfully support two regional centers.

Green Areas

Elliott also said that the widening of Street Road into a major traffic artery made it undesirable as a frontage for single family dwellings.

He termed the apartment complex "one of the finest developments yet presented to any township." Plans emphasize open space by holding the population density of the tract to about 50 per cent of that permitted by the zoning code. Thirteen and one-half units per acre are called for in the plans which stress "green areas" between the buildings.

Elliott explained that the complex will consist of 21 two-story buildings and six three-story buildings. Four hundred and fifty - four of the apartments will contain a single bedroom and 302 two bedrooms. The development, Elliott said, will have a residential character with the buildings arranged in clusters around courtyards.

Screened By Landscaping

The apartments will be screened by landscaping from the shopping center and landscaping will also be featured along Brookwood Drive as a buffer between the apartments and the single homes being constructed at Korman's Brookwood.

Competitive Rents

Sixty - six homes, scheduled for fall completion, are being built at Brookwood as the first two sections of a development that will eventually contain nearly 300 homes. Originally, Brookwood was to contain 320 homes. The change in zoning of about 12 acres of single dwelling land will reduce this number by an estimated 40 homes.

Elliott told the commission that rents in the apartments "would be competitive" and added that single bedroom apartments would rent in the neighborhood of $90 to $100 a month. The two bedroom units, he said, would not rent for more than $140.

College Adds Three Teachers

Bucks County Community College, Newtown, has added three assistant professors to its faculty in preparation for the start of its initial semester in September.

The new members of the teaching staff, according to Dr. Charles E. Rollins, president, are Mrs. Phyllis Rogers, Abington, Pa., who will teach French and Spanish; Norman A. Newberg, English, and Leonard B. Kruk, business administration.

Mrs. Rogers, who has been teaching languages for the past five years, took both her bachelor's and master's degrees in romance languages at the University of Pennsylvania. During the past year, she has taught French at the Newtown evening class center of Pennsylvania State University.

Other Posts

Her other teaching posts since graduation from Penn have been at the Lankenau School, Upper Merionide High School and the Stevens School. She and her husband make their home at 1903 Harding Ave., Abington.

Newberg taught formerly at Rutgers University in Camden as a co-adjunct instructor in English. A 1957 graduate of Temple University, where he majored in speech and dramatic arts, he took his master's degree in those subjects at the University of Illinois in 1961. He attended the Hedgerow Theatre School from 1956 to 1958.

His background in the teaching and direction of dramatics is extensive. As part of his graduate assistantship, he taught recreational and creative dramatics at the University of Illinois from 1959 to 1960.

Play-Reading Workshop

During the same period he conducted an acting and play-reading workshop at the Hill Foundation in Champaign, Ill. For Philadelphia Neighborhood Players, he conducted a seminar on the Greek Theatre in 1961, and thereafter organized and taught classes in beginning and advanced acting technique for the same group.

From 1957 until the present, he has directed nearly a score of dramatic productions by play - wrights ranging from Chekhov to Dlan Thomas, on behalf of Hedgerow, Neighborhood, Princeton Payers and other groups. He has also lectured extensively on the theater before church organizations and similar groups.

Finance, Math

Kruk, has previously taught finance and business mathematics at Temple University Community College. He received his bachelor's degree at Bloomsburg State College in 1959 and his master's degree in education at Temple University in 1964. He is working toward his doctorate at the same institution.

Following his graduation from Bloomsburg, he taught at Morris Hills Regional High School, Rockaway, N.Y., at the Cherry Hill High School and Abington High School. He has also been self-employed on a part-time basis as an accountant and tax consultant.

His professional memberships include the National Education Association, the Eastern Business Teachers Association, the Pennsylvania State Educational Association and the American Association of Accountants. His home is on Fairhill School Road, Hatfield.

The object is to stay in the saddle. The attraction stirred much interest but no takers. A reporter mixed the idea even after he was told the 25c admission would be waived.

There's something about the Fairless Hills Country Fair that seems to bring out the best in the people who live in this huge hunk of suburbia.

It's a rare thing to walk through a crowd as large as the fair audience and not see a single sneer.

Everyone goes to the fair for one reason — to have fun. And an accidental elbow in the ribs now and then doesn't discourage them one bit.

Probably the most impressive thing about the fair is the harmony in which the beneficiaries operate. Each of the 80 booths is sponsored by a charity organization and the proceeds go towards the group's projects.

There are many small differences between the participating organizations but at fair time the differences are somehow forgotten.

The YM-YWHA, for example, sells refreshments next to a booth operated by a group from Queen of the Universe Roman Catholic Church. A few yards away, a youth group from the Fairless Hills Methodist Church sells baked goods.

Lutheran Ceremony

St. John's Church To Lay Corner Stone

The corner stone for the new St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, will be laid by the pastor Rev. Donald B. Landis Sunday at 12:15 p.m.

The building will be the first unit of the new church complex at Pine Grove and Big Oak Roads, Lower Makefield Township.

Those participating in the corner stone ceremonies with Rev. Landis will be John Hoyer, church council vice president; John Muelhausen, building committee chairman; Burdette Theophilus, Sunday school superintendent; Mrs. Harrison Cunningham, Lutheran Churchwomen chairman and Mrs. Ernest Holmstrom, chairman of the Altar Guild.

Ground-Breaking

The ground-breaking ceremonies for the church were held last Nov. 1 and work on the building was started last January. Harold E. Wagoner and Associates of Philadelphia are the architects for the building.

The initial unit is being constructed of grey stone on a three-acre site. The unit will include the chapel with seating for 203 persons, classrooms, nurseries, office and other rooms. A parking lot for 40 cars is proposed in the plans.

The first meeting of the church was held in April 1955 with 21 persons in attendance. They were served by the Rev. Marvin DeWalt, a mission developer, who contacted the prospective members. The first service was held in the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation's parish house that same month, with 36 persons in attendance.

Charter Signed

The charter for St. John's Church was signed in July of the same year by 35 adult members of the church. The actual birth of the congregation was in October when the charter was closed with 63 parishioners registered.

The present home of the church on Alden Avenue, Morrisville, was first used by the congregation in August 1957. The founding pastor, Rev. DeWalt, accepted a call to Reading, in 1959 and was succeeded by Rev. Russell M. Swartley as the church's pastor.

Rev. Landis was installed as the church's present pastor in February. Today the church has 270 members in the congregation.

The congregation's autographs and other church memorabilia will be placed in the cornerstone.

Carter Confirms Ouster Of Zainea

Joseph G. Zainea will lose his job as Lower Makefield Township Manager and will be dropped at the end of his current probation period Oct. 1.

This was confirmed today by Supervisor Russell Carter, after it was exclusively reported yesterday in the Courier-Times.

Carter said the board of supervisors had found Zainea's work "unsatisfactory" and that he "lacked experience."

Trial Basis

Zainea began on a trial basis Feb. 1 at $8,500 a year. He had a contract calling for an increase to $9,000 a year after the eight months probation period ended. He will be given 30 days notice, Carter said.

Carter said he liked Zainea personally and found it hard to give him his notice. However, he said "it was in the best interest of the township."

Carter admitted another man was interviewed Monday night for the job. He said no decision as to whether he would be hired was made yet.

No Comment

Supervisor Bill Mackensen said he had no comment on the matter this morning.

However, both Mackensen and Carter said a statement might be forthcoming at Monday night's board meeting.

The man who was interviewed for the job is Ray Westerfield, former Lower Southampton Township manager who most recently was township manager at Cumru, near Reading.

Westerfield resigned from his last post April 19, and gave "personal reasons" as the cause. He served at Cumru for two years and for six years in Lower Southampton.

On Vacation

Carter said Zainea called him yesterday from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he is vacationing. Carter said Zainea was told the rumors about his being dropped were true. Zainea will be on vacation until July 26.

Zainea replaced William H. Struwe, who resigned to take a similar post at Moorestown, N.J.

Master's Degree

Zainea was formerly assistant to the city manager of Grand Rapids. He is a graduate of Western Michigan University and has a master's degree from the University of Pittsburgh.

Zainea, 28, is married and has one child. He has been living in the Colonial Gardens Apartment Plaza Blvd., Morrisville.

Zainea is a native of Grand Rapids and graduated from Catholic Central High School there.

Car Strikes Chief's Auto

The police chief of Upper Southampton Township received an injured neck yesterday when his car was struck in the rear at the intersection of Route 1 and Oxford Valley Road, Falls Township.

According to police, Gray was waiting for a traffic light to change when his auto was struck by a car driven by Warren Connelley, 27, of Browns Mills, N.J.

Connelley's auto lunged forward when it was hit in the rear by a third auto driven by William Martin, 33, of Kingston, police said.

Martin told police he was lighting a cigarette when he lost control of his car. The accident occurred at 4:30 p.m., police said.

Martin was charged with reckless driving.
